The cat and the mouse

The cat once bit the mouse's tail off. „Please, cat, give me my tail.“ „No,“ says the cat, „I will not give you your tail, until you go to the cow, and fetch me some milk.“ Said the cat.

First she leapt and then she ran.

Until she came to the cow and thus began:

„Please, Cow, give me milk, that I may give the cat milk, that cat may give me my own tail again.“ „No,“ said the cow, „I will give you no milk, until you go to the farmer, and get me some hay.“

First she leapt and then she ran.

Until she came to the farmer and thus began:

„Please, Farmer, give me hay, that I may give cow hay, that cow may give me milk, that I may give the cat milk, that cat may give me my own tail again.“ „No,“ said the farmer, „I will give you no hay, until you go to the butcher, and fetch me some meat.“

First she leapt and then she ran.

Until she came to the butcher and thus began:

„Please, Butcher, give me meat, that I may give farmer meat, that farmer give me hay, that I may give cow hay, that cow may give me milk, that I may give the cat milk, that cat may give me my own tail again.“ „No,“ said the butcher, „I will give you no meat, until you go to the baker, and fetch me some bread.“

First she leapt and then she ran.

Until she came to the baker and thus began:

„Please, Baker, give me bread, that I can give butcher bread, that butcher may give me meat, that

I may give farmer meat, that farmer give me hay, that I may give cow hay, that cow may give me milk, that I may give the cat milk, that cat may give me my own tail again.“

„Yes,“ said the baker, „I will give you some bread, but if you eat my meal, I will cut off your head.“

Then the baker gave mouse bread, and mouse gave the butcher bread, and butcher gave mouse meat, and mouse gave farmer meat, and farmer gave mouse hay, and mouse gave cow hay, and cow gave mouse milk, and mouse gave cat milk, and cat gave mouse her own tail again.
